

SYSTEMATIC THEOLOGY

Chapter 41 & 42

Question 1 of 41 and 2 & 3 of 42

1. These days, I do not dwell much thought on my death. If I do, it's more of myself asking the question, "how well did I live?". I do not fear death. Because death is simply me going home. Home in the presence of a good good father. I'm ready to go home, I just hope that during my life, I've done enough to help others come home with me. Paul is clear, to die is gain, as long as we remain focused on Christ and Our Father, there is no fear in death.

2. I, now more than ever, long for this resurrection, the closer I am to the lord, the more blessed I begin to feel. This resurrection is the ultimate process to living with Christ and the life he purposed for us.

3. I am excited to see what God has meant my body to be, what a perfect creation is like. As for those who are in heaven, I am unsure how interested in others I would be when I am in the presence of the one who made them all.
