

I believe there was many generational curses passed down in my family, such as gang violence, lust, drugs, alcoholism, and pornography. I identified these at a young age, but just thought it was normal because thats all I seen around me. It was when I would go to a friends house where I would think in my head, wow this is different. Its not that it was different, It was some curses passed down that never got dealt with in my family.